THE PRESIDENT OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

LE PRESIDENT DE L'ASSEMBLEE GENERALE

20 March 2014

Message of H.E. John W. Ashe President of the 68th Session of the United Nations General Assembly, on the International Day of Happiness

Nearly two years ago, the United Nations General Assembly adopted a resolution to designate March 20 as "International Day of Happiness."

On this day, Member States have come together to recognize the importance of universal well-being.

The International Day of Happiness celebrates unity and calls on the international community to support the three pillars of sustainable development -- social, economic and environmental. As the United Nations family sets out to identify the goals for an inclusive, people-centered Post 2015 Development Agenda with the eradication of poverty as its overarching objective, I invite Member States, international and regional organizations, as well as civil society, including non-governmental organizations and individuals, to raise public awareness of the aspirations of human beings around the world. Happiness is a fundamental human goal, and improving public policies in countries that can contribute thereto is essential to promoting equitable societies for all.
