

Oral Statement by the Secretariat in connection with draft resolution A/C.2/65/70, entitled "International Year for Sustainable Energy for All"

1. This oral statement is made in accordance with rule 153 of the Rules of Procedure of the General Assembly.
2. In operative paragraphs 1 and 3 of the draft resolution, the General Assembly would:
  - (a) "Decide to declare 2012 as the International Year of Sustainable Energy for All; and
  - (b) Request the Secretary-General, in consultation with relevant agencies within the United Nations system and the UN Energy, and mindful of the provisions of the annex to the Economic and Social Council's resolution 1980/67, to organize and coordinate activities to be undertaken during the Year 2012."
3. Attention of the Second Committee is brought to the following paragraphs of the annex to the Economic and Social Council's resolution 1980/67, (a full copy of the resolution and its annex is attached for reference):
  - (a) "A year should not be proclaimed before basic arrangements necessary for its financing have been made and such financing should in principle be based on voluntary contributions (paragraph 13);
  - (b) A year should not be proclaimed before basic arrangements necessary for its organization have been made (paragraph 14); and
  - (c) The proclamation of international years and activities connected with them should not lead to a proliferation of posts in the United Nations Secretariat or in the secretariats of other international organizations; furthermore, expenditures should normally be met from existing resources in the regular budget" (paragraph 21).
4. Mindful of the provisions indicated above, the Secretary-General would organize and finance the activities in principle by voluntary contributions (paragraphs 13 and 14) and expenditures incurred in celebrating the international year would be met from existing resources in the regular budget (paragraph 21). Further, it is the understanding of the secretariat that conference services for meetings and documentation related to the celebration would be provided on as available basis. Therefore, should the draft resolution be adopted, no additional requirements would arise under the programme budget for the biennium 2010-2011.

ANNEX

Guide-lines for future international years

I. Criteria for the proclamation of international years

1. The proposed subject of the year should be consistent with the purposes and principles of the United Nations, as stated in the Charter of the United Nations.

2. The subject should be of priority concern in the political, social, economic, cultural, humanitarian or human rights fields.

3. The subject should be of concern to all or to the majority of countries, regardless of their economic and social systems, and should contribute to the development of international co-operation in solving global problems, with special attention to problems affecting developing countries.

4. The desirability of proclaiming international years and the selection of their themes should in general be determined from the point of view of their possible contribution to solving existing international problems, thus contributing to the strengthening of universal peace.

5. The subject should be one involving action at the international and national levels.

6. The subject should be one for which there is a reasonable expectation that an international year would generate significant follow-up at both the national and the international level in the form of new activities or the strengthening of existing ones.

7. Every effort should be made to ensure that there is an interval of at least two years between international years and a longer interval between years designated for similar subjects.

8. Years should be designated to focus on one subject or on closely related subjects.

9. International years should be proclaimed only when celebrations of shorter duration, such as a month, a week or a day, will not suffice.

10. When a world conference on a particular subject has been or is being separately convened, or when a subject is already of wide international concern and effective organizations and programmes exist to further its ends, an international year should not normally be proclaimed.

II. Procedures preceding the proclamation of international years

11. A final decision on a proposal for an international year should be taken by the General Assembly, not earlier than one full year after the introduction of the proposal, thus allowing the views of all Member States to be taken into account and allowing the competent organs to make a thorough assessment of the proposal in the light of its practical desirability and the probability of real results.

12. Proposals for international years made under the auspices of organizations within the United Nations system should, before the proclamation of the years, be brought to the attention of the Economic and Social Council, to enable the Council, in so far as the proposals fall within its competence, to advise on the timing of the proposed years and to evaluate their purpose in the light of the present guide-lines.

13. A year should not be proclaimed before the basic arrangements necessary for its financing have been made and such financing should in principle be based on voluntary contributions.

14. A year should not be proclaimed before the basic arrangements necessary for its organization have been made.

III. Procedures for organizing the celebration of international years

15. The basic objectives of each year should be clearly defined.

16. In general, there should be a period of two years between the proclamation of an international year and the beginning of that year.

17. Years having economic or social themes should be primarily directed towards promoting international development efforts in practical ways.

18. Measures and activities to be carried out at the international level should complement and support measures and activities at the national level.

19. There should ordinarily be national committees or other mechanisms for preparing for, conducting and following up the international year at the national level.

20. There should be effective co-ordination of the activities of all United Nations organizations and bodies concerned, so as to avoid any duplication of activities.

21. The proclamation of international years and activities connected with them should not lead to a proliferation of posts in the United Nations Secretariat or in the secretariats of other international organizations; furthermore, expenditures should normally be met from existing resources in the regular budget.

22. As a rule, special secretariats established for the celebration of international years should be dissolved immediately upon the conclusion of those years.

IV. Procedures for the evaluation of international years

23. Each international year should have objectives likely to lead to identifiable and practical results.

24. Procedures for evaluation should be established during the preparatory process and should form part of the implementation and follow-up of each international year.

25. Evaluation should, inter alia, assess the activities generated during the year and continuing after the year ends, as well as modifications in ongoing activities attributable to the year, with a view to integrating those activities, if necessary, in regular programmes.

26. Evaluation after the year should be based on reporting arrangements designed especially for the subject of the international year; it should facilitate the follow-up process and it should provide guidance for future international years.

27. Evaluation should be carried out within the budgetary resources provided, and the results of such evaluation should be submitted to the existing appropriate intergovernmental bodies for consideration.

1980/68. Co-operation in the uses of the sea and coastal area development

The Economic and Social Council,
