9 July 2015

Modality and participants

The key note address will be delivered by Joseph Stiglitz, Nobel Laureate and professor of Economics at Columbia University. The roundtable will include ministers of finance from different regions and the five Executive Secretaries of the Regional Commissions. The roundtable will be moderated by a minister of finance from Africa.

Background

In its resolution 68/279, adopted June 30 2014, the General Assembly “calls upon the regional commissions, with the support of regional development banks and other relevant entities, to hold regional consultations, as appropriate, the outcome of which could serve as input to the preparations for the third International Conference on Financing for Development”. In this context, the UN Regional Commissions held regional consultations in their respective regions in the beginning of 2015. The outcomes of the consultations highlight regional initiatives and policy options to address the financing for development needs of Member States in view of the ambitious and transformative post-2015 development agenda, as well as the role of the UN Regional Commissions in supporting such action.

Building on the outcomes of the regional consultations, the side event will provide Member States and other stakeholders with perspectives and assessment of the dynamics in the regions, their bearing on a changing financing landscape and the role and potential of the regions in carrying out effectively an Addis Ababa Accord in the context of a post-2015 agenda with sustainable development at the core.
