UNSCR 1325 "women, peace and security": towards an integrated and effective implementation

The experience of three countries in the implementation of their national action plans on SC resolution 1325 will be examined and discussed. It will be an opportunity for an overview of the main achievements and challenges to the implementation of the resolution a decade after its adoption by the UN Security Council. Good practices should be identified and we also expect an exchange of views on the role of women in different contexts dealing with peace and security, with the aim of formulating recommendations for an effective and integrated implementation of the resolution at national, regional and global levels.
