

Tracking financing for gender equality

Patti O'Neill, Deputy Head of Division
OECD DAC Network on Gender Equality
1 March 2012

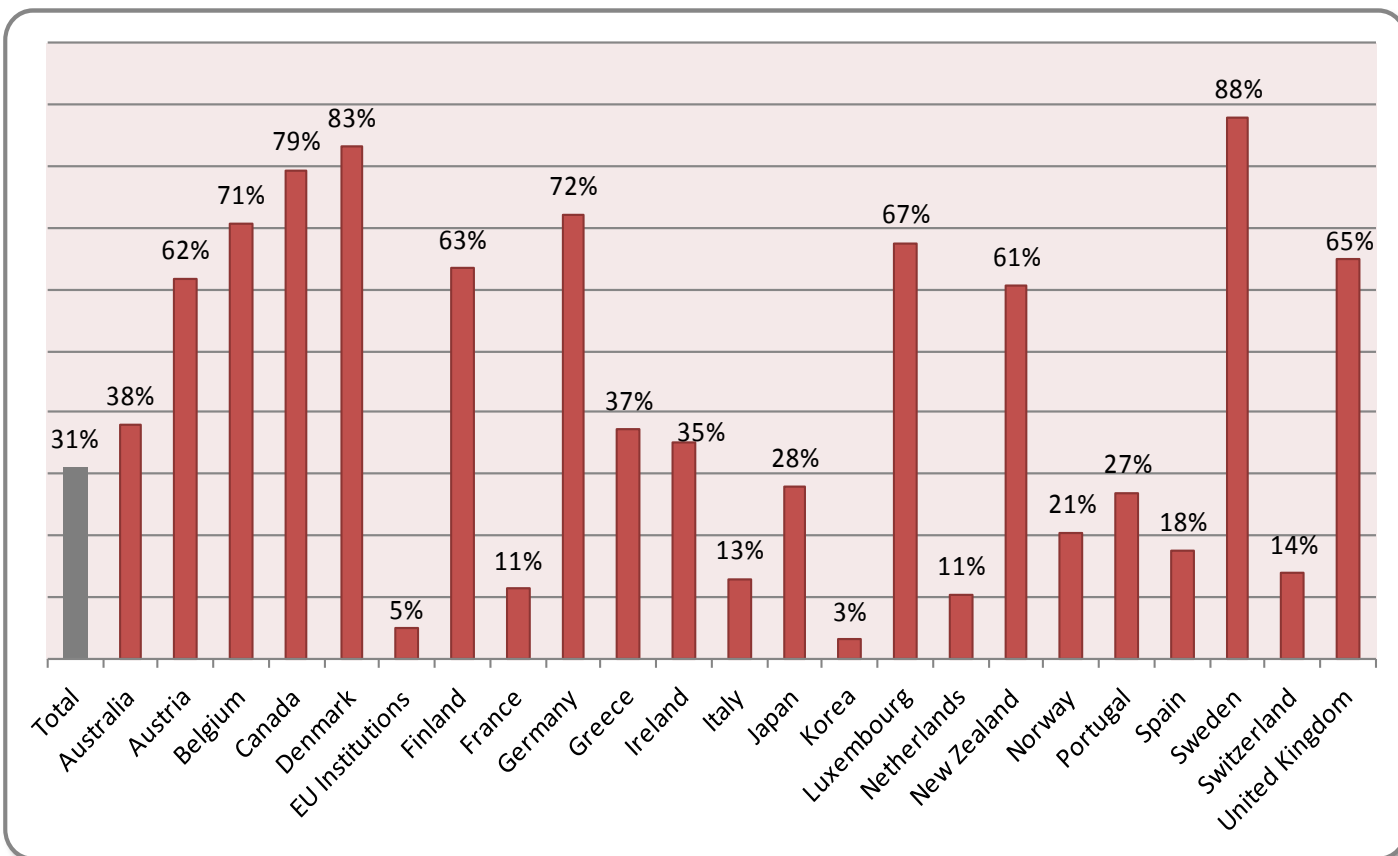

Bilateral aid focussed on gender equality by sector

Average in 2009–10, in %

Gender equality focus by DAC donor in the sectors of agriculture and rural development

Average in 2009-10, in %

The Busan Partnership for Effective Development Co-operation, paragraph 20

“We will:

- Accelerate and deepen efforts to collect, disseminate, harmonise and make full use of data disaggregated by sex to inform policy decisions and guide investments, ensuring in turn that public expenditures are targeted appropriately to benefit both women and men.
- Integrate targets for gender equality and women’s empowerment in accountability mechanisms, grounded in international and regional commitments.
- Address gender equality and women’s empowerment in all aspects of our development efforts, including peacebuilding and statebuilding”

Recommendations

- Multilateral institutions, including UN agencies and the multilateral development banks standardise their approach to recording gender equality focussed assistance; publish the data; and report their data to the DAC's Creditor Reporting System.
- The inclusion of gender equality and women's rights dimensions in the future global and local targets and indicators for monitoring the implementation of the Busan Global Partnership for Development Effectiveness.

www.oecd.org/dac/gender